Opening day: More boats, bigger shrimp, lower prices filled with both beauty & heartache

Views From a Shrimp Boat
by Paul Estronza
La Violette

We were still busy icing down our catch, so at first I really didn't notice the small group of people standing on the dock when we tied up. When I realized they weren't moving, just standing there quietly, just watching us, it struck me as a little strange.

"Who are those people, Bob?" Bob, never one to waste words, glanced over at them, grunted and kept on shoveling ice. Duddie came out of the pilot house and picking up a hose, started hosing things down. I asked him the same question. He looked over at them and said, "Ask them. Can we help you folks?" "Yes, yes," I said. "How much are your shrimp?" "Can we help you catch?"

Bob looked up from his work and answered the question. "A hundred and forty, because of the weather."

More shrimpers, better compliance than year before

STHE SEA COAST ECHO shrimp season, which officially opened in Mississippi territorial waters at sunrise Thursday, brought with it about a 20 percent increase in the number of commercial vessels, possibly due to favorable weather conditions.

More than a thousand shrimp boats came out to work on opening day. The Department of Marine Resources (DMR) marine fisheries staff completed an aerial survey of the shrimp boats and reported an increase in the number of boats on the water.

Hancock gives out-of-district kids a reprieve

Board reverses gears; lets students come forward, pay tuition

BY SHANNON JENKINS

Like any good movie, there will be laughter, tears and applause. This can also be said for Thursday's meeting of the Hancock County School Board.

Anger flared and tears were shed during the emotional roller-coaster of a meeting that focused on a major concern for some parents — the acceptance of out-of-district students.

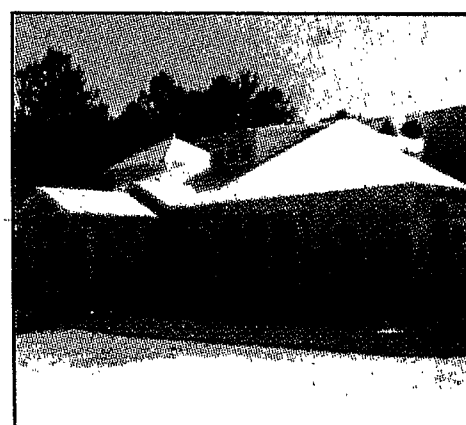

In the May meeting, the board approved a motion to ban all out-of-district students. This ban also covered students who were already attending the schools and paying tuition.

Wal-Mart project moves ahead

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

The controversial plans for a Wal-Mart in Pass Christian moved forward during the June 5 board of aldermen meeting when city officials approved the combining of several parcels of land.

During the May 28 board meeting, Wal-Mart representatives requested that the plat of property located on Highway 90 East between Hayden Avenue and Holiday Drive be combined.

Now that the property has been combined, city official Peggy Johnson said, the next phase will be a project review where the Wal-Mart representatives will submit preliminary plans for review. This will include plans for parking, landscaping, utilities connection, etc.

"Once those plans are approved," Johnson said,

"(then Wal-Mart representatives) will submit construction plans."

In other business, the board approved the purchase of a $270 water sprayer for the city's beautification and granted the request for the Boys and Girls Club and the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency to use the Randolph Multi-purpose Gym for summer activities.

Four-year-old Mississippi leukemia patient needs blood donors June 13

Smithdale resident Chance Wroten was diagnosed with leukemia on his fourth birthday. "At a time when the blood supply is at an all-time low, this is really bad news," said Mississippi Blood Services spokesperson Dani Edmonson.

Part of his medical care in the coming months will be a series of blood transfusions.

"The public seems to have grown indifferent to giving blood based on donation levels over the last few months," said Edmonson.

"Chance's situation is a sad reminder that blood must be available constantly because, the need for blood oftentimes comes up suddenly and unexpectedly.

Cellular South of Gulfport is sponsoring a blood drive for Wroten, Thursday, June 13, from noon to 5 p.m. at Cellular South in the conference room.

"We urge all healthy individuals to give blood at this special drive," Edmonson added. Donors must be at least 17 years old, healthy and weigh at least 110 pounds to give blood at this drive.

Waveland earns 'Storm Ready' award

City also honored with 'Class 6' flood hazard rating

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

It's getting cheaper – and safer – to live in Waveland.

That was acknowledged in grand style Wednesday evening by both the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) and the National Weather Service.

Meteorologist in Charge of the National Weather Forecast Office New Orleans/Baton Rouge Paul S. Trotter and MEMA director Robert Latham both met with Waveland aldermen at their regular meeting Wednesday. Trotter presented the city and Fire Chief David Garcia with a "Storm Ready" sign in recognition for what the Waveland Fire Department has done to help the city become a Storm Ready Community.

Through the Storm Ready program, NOAA's National Weather Service gives communities the skill and education needed to survive severe weather, both before and during the event. According to a press release, "90 percent of all presidential-declared disaster is weather-related. ... Storm Ready helps community leaders and emergency managers strengthen their local hazardous weather operations."

Paul S. Trotter, meteorologist in charge of the National Weather Service Forecast Office New Orleans/Baton Rouge, on Wednesday presents Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia with a STORM READY sign at the Waveland Board of Aldermen meeting. Waveland is one of only six communities in the state to earn the recognition.

lishing a 24-hour warning point and emergency operations center; creating a system that monitors local conditions; developing outreach projects that promote the importance of public readiness through community seminars; writing and developing a formal hazardous weather plan that includes training firefighters to be "severe weather-spotters," and reporting information to the local forecast office; and holding emergency exercises to test the plan.

There are currently 386 Storm Ready communities in the nation, but Waveland becomes only the sixth in the state of Mississippi, joining Brandon, Clarksdale, Columbia, Richland and Hattiesburg.

Latham also congratulated Garcia and the city on earning a Class 6 rating in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP), and said the city is the only one in the state to earn such a distinction, and one of only 33 in the nation.

The NFIP was established in 1968 to make federally-backed flood insurance available in communities that agree to adopt and enforce floodplain management ordinances to reduce future flood damage.

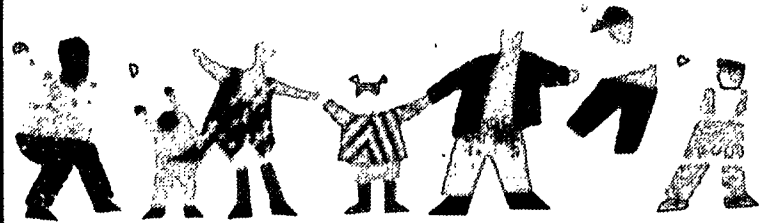

Waveland entered the NFIP in 1993 at Class 10, which is where all communities start. There are 10 classes.

A Class 6 rating will allow residents who live in Special Flood Hazard Areas to see an overall savings of 20 percent on their flood insurance policies.

Waveland residents in areas designated Non-Special Flood Hazard Areas will continue to receive a premium reduction of five percent on their policies.

Mayor Tommy Longo said this is the third year in a row that the city has seen a reduction in insurance rates, and praised the work of the fire department and Garcia in particular, who coordinates the Community Rating System for the city.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Wednesday was a very big kickoff for the second annual Hurricane Fair and Hancock County's Summer Reading Program at the Stennis International Airport.

There were lots of things of interest, but the Keesler Hurricane Hunters and a WC-130 appeared to have been the most visited by folks of all ages.

It was just a great day with lots of participation from many agencies that offered very vital information for residents on many important subjects.

The bringing together of so many agencies, local, governmental and national, in addition to providers of services, just shows what working together can accomplish.

Everyone appeared to be smiling, at the attendance and results of their efforts.

Many need to be commended for their efforts, and should be very proud of their participation.

There were many who contributed, and I do not want to slight them, but I do have to mention Sue Chamberlin, who did so much leg work for the fair.

The leaders of our Hancock County Library System, Hancock County Board of Supervisors and cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, all should be commended, too.

I am looking forward to next year to see if this year's success can be topped.

Summer time many in the area have visitors from throughout the country visiting during vacations. There are also those returning home for a visit.

When some of these visitors come to town, you may want to take them to visit the StennisSphere Visitors Center at the Stennis Space Center.

The visitor center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. except major holidays.

Tours depart every 15 minutes from the Launch Pad tour stop at the I-10 Welcome Center, and admission to StennisSphere is free.

There are so many things which are happening at the Stennis Space Center and StennisSphere through exhibits that touch many of the operations which take place right here in Hancock County.

As many of you know, the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command's world-class oceanographic and meteorological center at Stennis employs the largest number of oceanographers in the world.

NASA and more than 30 other agencies, like the Department of Defense, the National Data Buoy Center, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Boeing Company, Lockheed Martin and many more conduct business at Stennis.

There are some 4,600 people employed at the Stennis Center, and every Space Shuttle main engine that has flown was tested and proven flight-worthy here in Hancock County.

If you like history, you may want to view a Moon Rock collected by the crew of Apollo 15 in August 1971. It is estimated to be more than three billion years old.

You may view the Apollo 13 space suit worn by astronaut Fred Haise from our neighboring Biloxi, a crewmember of the heroic Apollo 13 mission.

See earth imaging photos, an F-1 engine that powered the first stage of the giant Saturn Rocket to the Moon, a Space Shuttle Main Engine and solid rocket booster, etc.

There are so many very interesting things to do and see.

Oh! By the way, the Rockateria is now operated by Lil' Ray's, so you may want to enjoy a great lunch, if you so desire.

In recent months the number of 'one-eyed' vehicles seemed to be fewer than previously, but there are still some on our roads at

Congress' Republican majority stops vote against military base closure - 16 times

I am adamantly opposed down vote on an amendment I proposed, we were denied that simple right as elected representatives of our respective congressional districts.

From the House

By U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor

You would also think that my other colleagues in the U.S. House who are against the closure of military installations would like an opportunity to vote on this issue.

Yet, on May 9 and the early morning hours of May 10 when I asked my colleagues in the U.S. House to extend me the simple courtesy of an up or base closures to take place in 2005.

Last year, by a very narrow margin in its version of the FY 02 Defense Authorization Act, the U.S. Senate approved a provision to permit additional base closures. The House version of the defense bill contained no such provision.

The base closure provision was added to the defense bill in the House-Senate defense conference report over my strong objections. The House, just like this year, was never given the opportunity to consider base closure.

There have been three previous rounds of base closures that took place during the 1990s. Previous base closures did not save the taxpayer a single dime.

After the previous rounds of base closures, not one general, admiral or secretary of defense can name one weapons system that has been purchased with money from base closure savings. Base closures ruin the lives of military retirees, over half of whom retired near a military facility with the intention of using a base hospital or commissary.

When a military base closes, so does the base hospital and commissary. The closing of military installations puts every single Department of Defense employee wondering if his or her job is in jeopardy.

During the floor debate on the defense authorization, members frequently riaged. We must be looking toward the future, not the past. The value of a primary income far more from receiving Work is a tant factor.

Finally, to see the value of a primary income far more from receiving Work is a tant factor.

BRAGGING RIGHTS

OUR COLLEGES ARE NO. 1! IN BUDGET CUTS.

Welfare reform: Round two

For decades, conservatives from the Congress to the coffee shops warned that welfare would eventually need reform.

Later, welfare got grossly out of hand, and the 50 states had no choice but to clean up the system. The federal government then joined the effort.

Now with welfare rolls dwindling, we are on the right track, but we still could do more to encourage work, promote marriage and give states more flexibility in administering welfare services.

Today, President Bush is advocating a second round of welfare reform - and again we are going to face criticism and hysteria from the left.

However, it's hard to argue with success. Already, in the last few years welfare rolls as a share of population have dropped nearly two-thirds to their lowest point in 40 years.

Poverty too has declined across all categories. In 2000, 5.4 million fewer Americans lived in poverty than just 4 years before, and 8 million fewer than in 1993 when states like Mississippi began reforming welfare.

Today, more single mothers are employed, and their income is rising. Out-of-wedlock births - which we all know contribute greatly to a number of social problems - have leveled off, and teen births have also declined nationwide.

Some, of course, contend this is the result of a booming economy in the 90s. However, it was the states and Congress which drove this successful reform process, using waivers from federal rules to initiate bold new anti-poverty plans.

So, in reality this positive trend is the result of a belated but blunt realization that work works, and that regular federal subsidies do not.

As has been the case for years, work, marriage and state initiatives will remain the centerpiece of any further welfare reform plan that I support.

Our letters policy

Despite huge gains in caseload reduction and employment, far too many welfare recipients do not work even one hour per week - that according to the Department of Health and Human Services.

So, it is obvious there is room for improvement. With this in mind, President Bush will soon begin to lead the next step of welfare reform.

This effort will build upon the already successful formula initiated by the states. President Bush will give our states even more flexibility to fight poverty, specifically by allowing states to merge existing federal anti-poverty programs.

States are more local, and much closer to the people they serve than Washington bureaucrats. States are better situated to interface with local universities and organizations.

This collaboration can help provide the education, technical skills or motivation needed for welfare recipients to secure and hold stable jobs.

Likewise, states and local governments have a more vested interest in welfare reform's success, and are much more inclined to ensure that success.

Like flexibility, marriage and stable family environments will be a key to this plan. Children from broken homes are more likely to have academic problems, become drop-outs or become pregnant outside of marriage.

Taylor -- closures

mentioned that our nation is at war against terrorism. Does it make sense to close military bases when we are at war? The military chiefs have told Congress that they need more people, not fewer.

Right now the Navy is looking for an east coast base to put the Joint Strike Fighter. They are also looking for a base for the F/A-18E/F fighter bombers.

Environmental and encroachment issues will likely prohibit basing these aircraft for the Atlantic Fleet at an existing installation near the ocean.

There is a former base in Florida that has three 8,000-foot runways and a fourth runway that is 12,000 feet long. From that base, planes could take off directly over the Atlantic Ocean, make all the noise they want and, God forbid, in the event the pilots had to eject or their plane crashed, it would not fall on someone's house, a school or busload of children.

Unfortunately, that base, Cecil Field near Jacksonville, Florida, was closed during a previous round of base closures. Now, the American taxpayer is going to spend more than $1 billion to replace Cecil Field.

Let's not forget another very important thing. Earlier proponents of BRAC spoke of expected revenues that would be generated from the sale of closed bases.

However, these savings were never realized as a majority of the bases were given away to local or state governments rather than being sold to private entities. Our nation also had to clean up closed bases before we gave them away.

The American taxpayer has spent $13 billion for environmental clean-up at military bases that we gave away during the previous three rounds of base closures.

I want to bring my points closer to home. During the previous base closure commissions, Naval Air Station Meridian was targeted each and every time.

In my opinion, the only reason NAS Meridian survived was the tireless efforts for former Congressman G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery who attended each and every BRAC meeting and hearing. There should be no question that NAS Meridian will again be targeted.

Let's not kid ourselves. We are fortunate to have a lot of military installations in Mississippi. If there is another BRAC Commission to close bases, every base is put in jeopardy.

I was very disturbed when my amendment was not allowed consideration. If any of my colleagues disagreed with my position, that's their right if they had to guts to stand up and vote for another round of base closures.

The Republican majority didn't allow that. The Republican controlled Rules Committee refused to accept my amendment and despite my 16 attempts with procedural motions that were aimed at getting a vote on my amendment on the floor of the House, an up-or-down vote was never allowed.

Every congressman is elected to stand up for you and to be your voice in Washington. The majority party denied me and the other congressmen who oppose base closure that right during the debate of the Defense Authorization Bill. It's a real shame when members of Congress hide from the very voters who elected them.

We must continue working toward replacing welfare dependency with stable two-parent, married families.

Finally, you will continue to see Republicans tout the value of work. Work is the primary reason why low-income families are earning more from employment and receiving less from welfare.

Work is the most important factor in breaking the dependency that welfare fosters. Work is critical to self-esteem, peace-of-mind and to the realization of the American dream.

Requiring work, promoting stable marriages and giving local and state folks more power to address their unique brand of problems — these are the ideas used to start successful welfare reform, and these are the values that will finish it.

Smokey Bear, Traveling Troubadours and Mime headline libraries' Summer Reading

Ever wondered how Smokey Bear got his name? Or traveled through an age-old castle with Rumpelstiltskin? Or been in the mysterious, silent world of mime?

Well, you can learn the answers to all of these questions during the second week of the Hancock County Library System's 2002 Summer Reading Program.

Themed Reading is a Picnic, the program is open to children preschool through eighth grade and promotes reading during the summer months.

The Story of Smokey Bear will be the program at the Pearlinton Public Library on Tuesday, June 11, at 10:30 a.m. Presented by the Hancock County Forestry Commission, children will hear the story of Smokey Bear and learn all about forest safety.

The Terrific Traveling Troubadours will present a program on Classic Fairy Tales on Wednesday, June 12, at 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

Children will travel with Claudia Baumgarten on an adventure through an age-old castle with Rumpelstiltskin; skip through a beautiful German forest with Little Red Riding Hood; and toss about a creaky boat with the Fisherman and His Wife.

Enter the mysterious, silent world of mime at the Kiln Public Library on Thursday, June 13, at 10:30 a.m., when Erik McAllister presents a program on Masks, Mime and Imagination.

Using classical mime technique, character development and pantomime, Erik McAllister offers an exciting overview of the art of mime. A special treat for the audience is a giant inflatable monster that shows the dexterity and strength involved in mime.

Children who have not registered for the Summer Reading Program can still do so by visiting the library branch nearest them. All they need to do is visit a branch library at least four times and read a minimum of six (6) books.

Due to the renovation/expansion project at the Waveland Library, children that normally attended programs there are invited to register at and attend any and all programs at the other branches.

More information on the programs is available by calling the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 467-5282; Kiln Public Library, 255-1724; or the Pearlinton Public Library, 533-0755.

Or you can check the schedule out on the Web at www.hancock.lib.ms.us.

Methodist Rehabilitation Center urges swimmers, divers to 'think first' about safety

Physicians at Methodist Rehabilitation Center are encouraging swimmers and divers to think first about safety, especially during the summer months.

"Each year, about 1,000 diving-related injuries occur," said Dr. Rahul Vohra, medical director at Methodist Rehab.

"This accounts for 10 percent of all spinal cord injuries and 60 percent of all recreational injuries."

Dr. Vohra recommends always checking the water for a minimum depth of 10 feet before diving or jumping in and to be aware of "no diving" or "no swimming" signs.

"If there is a 'no diving' sign, it means the water is not safe for a head-first entry. Check the water for hidden rocks before entering the water feet first," Dr. Vohra said.

Lauren Fairburn, director of Think First, Methodist Rehab's statewide safety and injury prevention program says there are other safety concerns to consider around water.

"Drowning is the second leading cause of injury-related death for children ages 14 and under," said Fairburn.

Fairburn says children under one year of age most often drown in bathtubs, toilets or buckets. Children age one to four usually drown in swimming pools, hot tubs and spas, and children ages 5 to 14 tend to drown in swimming pools, lakes or rivers.

"Alcohol use is involved in nearly 50 percent of all teenage and adult drowning deaths," said Fairburn.

Dr. Vohra's offers the following tips for keeping safe around water:

- Never swim alone. Whether you are swimming in a backyard pool or in a lake, always have someone else with you to help in case of an emergency.

- Know your limits. If you are not a skilled swimmer, don't try to keep up with friends. Always wear a life jacket and stay close to shore.

- Never leave a child unattended in or around water. Children can drown in as little as one inch of water in a matter of seconds.

If you own a pool or spa, consider installing a fence and always make sure children who cannot swim wear life jackets.

- Check the water for a minimum depth of 10 feet before diving or jumping.

- Never eat or chew gum while swimming or diving. Choking is the leading cause of unintentional death in young children and can be dangerous in water.

- Take swimming lessons. Enroll yourself and your children age four and older in swimming lessons. It can save their life.

- Learn CPR. This particularly applies to pool and boat owners.

- Never drink alcohol while boating or swimming.

"Traumatic injuries peak during the summer months when children are out of school and aren't supervised as much," said Vohra.

"The more time they spend outdoors increases their risk of injury, especially if they aren't protected with the appropriate safety gear and supervision."

Think First is aimed at young children and teenagers and tries to prevent spinal cord, brain and other traumatic injuries by focusing on fire, bicycle, automobile, firearm, boat, swimming and diving safety.

For more information about Think First, or to set up a Think First event at a Mississippi school, call Lauren Fairburn at 601-364-3451.

Think First and injury prevention information is also available online at www.thinkfirstmississippi.org.

Methodist Rehabilitation Center provides comprehensive medical rehabilitation programs for people with spinal cord and brain injuries, stroke and other neurological and orthopedic disorders and treats patients from all over the United States.

The 124-bed state-of-the-art hospital in Jackson is the only freestanding physical rehabilitation hospital in Mississippi and one of only 17 in the country designated as a Traumatic Brain Injury Model System by the National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research.

NASA uses telemedicine to help guide surgery on patients in Japan

A communications system arranged with the help of NASA's Stennis Space Center has enabled physicians at the University of Mississippi Medical Center (UMC) to guide surgery performed on patients in Japan.

Interventional radiologist Dr. Patrick Sewell at UMC agreed to help Japanese physicians who requested his assistance in performing clinical trials of his new image-guided interventional surgeries. Travel to Japan, however, was time-consuming.

Sewell knew there must be a better way. He called on NASA's Bill Parsons, then the deputy director of Johnson Space Center, Houston, Texas, and currently director of center operations and support at Stennis Space Center, to find a solution.

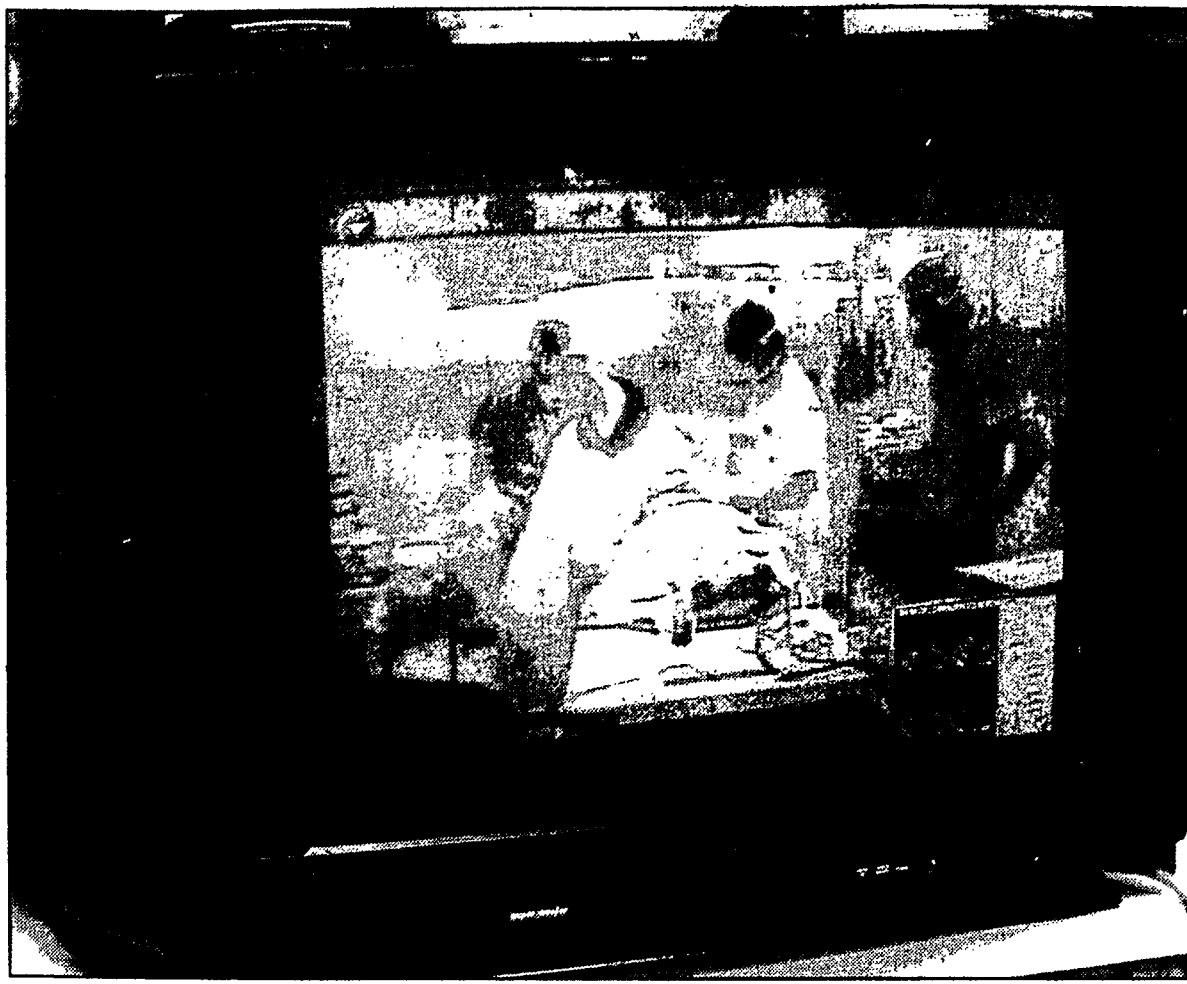

The answer to this communications challenge involves NASA-provided telecommunications and medical imaging linkups between UMC and two hospitals in Japan.

At UMC, using teleconferencing and real-time magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) scans, Dr. Sewell directs the physicians in Japan in performing the minimally invasive surgical procedures.

Les Ridaught, a Stennis-based NASA Integrated Services Network (NISN) customer service representative for Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., coordinated the technology mission to link UMC and the Japanese hospitals.

To accommodate the physicians' telemedicine needs, technicians traveled to Jackson to assemble the system at UMC. The transmissions are fiber optic and travel over transoceanic cables at the speed of light. Such "terrestrial" transmission is faster than satellite transmission, which has a half-second delay.

Along with audio transmissions, a large, flat-screen monitor reveals the patient and doctor in Japan to doctors at UMC. A picture-in-picture, or PIP, displays MRI images of the patient. Once in place, the telemedicine system is simple to use. "It's as easy as picking up the phone," said Ridaught. "It's a simple international phone call."

Ridaught and a Stennis NISN technician tweaked the system for special needs. During one of the first operations performed using the telemedicine system, Sewell was having trouble communicating a particular point to the Japanese doctors, so he picked up a piece of paper and drew a picture to explain.

The Stennis NISN technician who helped install and maintain the system in Jackson connected a document camera to transmit the image. The technology was successful, and the UMC physicians asked to have that feature installed for future procedures.

"The folks at UMC had great things to say about Les Ridaught's assistance," said Parsons.

The opportunity to expand telemedicine technology may be around the corner. UMC is interested in participating this summer in a Milan, Italy medical conference, and they are considering the use of similar technology.

"This remote imaging project helps NASA learn more about these techniques and the real benefits of using such techniques," said Parsons.

"One area NASA has been working to improve is our ability to perform telemedicine. There are many areas in which NASA human space flight and UMC can collaborate to improve the ability of humans to live and work in space."

Ridaught shares Parsons' enthusiasm for NASA's telemedicine efforts. "This is one of those projects that makes it all worthwhile," said Ridaught.

AmeriCorps helping Boys & Girls Club

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

When AmeriCorps volunteer Tonya O'Neill began her service with the Boys and Girls Club in Pass Christian, she introduced herself as "Mean Ms. Tonya."

Immediately, the children whispered to one another, "Don't mess with her."

Now, as the children file out of the classroom on their way to recreation, almost all pause to give her a quick hug. One girl hugs her and says, "I love you, Ms. Tonya."

O'Neill, a 28-year-old Gulfport native, drives a total of 60 minutes five days a week to teach the 52 children who are enrolled in her class. She said the children, however, are not all present at the same time.

Regardless of the number present, O'Neill has plenty of youngsters on her hands and she appears grateful.

"I want to be a teacher," she said. When asked what she teaches now, she said she's "sneaking education in without them knowing it."

"(Being an AmeriCorps volunteer) shows me how to handle children with all mental states. They all think differently, and there's different ways to handle (each child)."

In other words, what works for one child may not work for another.

"AmeriCorps has also given me a lot of patience to deal with my own child," said O'Neill, who has a 7-year-old daughter.

O'Neill, who has about four years of experience in working with children (seven, if you count her daughter, said her job is awesome.

"I love it," she said. "I think I've found my niche."

Francisco Maya, 40, is also an AmeriCorps volunteer in the Pass Christian branch of the Boys and Girls Club. This Mexico City native said he became a volunteer so he could help others and learn himself.

"By helping others," he said, "I help myself."

Maya said he learns by observing himself during the times he assists the children in learning.

"I learn different insights, views and feelings about life and the world," he said. This learning experience, however, can also present its challenges in the form of exuberant youths.

"In the beginning, the children tried to test me, challenge me. Now they feel like I'm family. Kind of like their 'old parent,'" he said with a smile. Its this feel of family that Maya said makes the AmeriCorps program and the Boys and Girls Club so important.

"American society can be very hectic for parents," he said. "[Sometimes] they need a reliable place in which they can place their children and know they will learn and be safe."

This environment of learning and safety is not only beneficiary to the children, it also has its advantages for the volunteers.

Alicia Tarrant, who volunteers in the Biloxi branch of the Boys and Girls Club, recently visited the Pass Christian branch to see her fellow AmeriCorps volunteers at work and gave some insight as to what it means to be a volunteer.

"You go to work every day and feel good about what you do," the 25-year-old said. "You don't dread work. Not everyone can say that."

Tarrant, who plans to work on a master's degree in reading or counseling at the University of Southern Mississippi, joined AmeriCorps to help pay off her student debts and help pay for her master's.

Although AmeriCorps is a volunteer program, volunteers may earn money for college.

Once a volunteer successfully completes his or her term of service, an education award will be granted to pay for "higher education or training or to repay qualified student loans."

Lesley Ann Back, AmeriCorps program director, said AmeriCorps is the domestic Peace Corps and engages persons in results-driven volunteer service.

"AmeriCorps gives volunteers basic job experience," Back said. "(Also, it always increases self-esteem, self-awareness and service ethics."

Back said the Boys and Girls Club is actively recruiting for AmeriCorps volunteers for the next term of service, which is August 1, 2002, through July 31, 2003. Currently, there are 21 positions available for ages 17 (must be a senior in high school) and up.

For more information, call Back at (228) 374-2330.

School -- moving school will now be located on the same campus for the first time.

"It's a positive thing," said Williams. "Something we've been trying to do since the early 1970's."

Williams added that the school officially had a lease at the Beach Blvd. location until 2005.

To complete the move, the school will hold a garage sale at the old Bay St. Louis location at 912 S. Beach Blvd. on June 12, 13, and 14 from 8 a.m. till Noon. The sale will be housed in the red brick building at the school, Williams said, and feature a lot of items that will not be needed at the new school. School furniture, children's toys and items donated by parents will round out the sale.

The dedication of the new pre-school was held on May 31. The first parent meeting held at the new location will be on June 13th.

The high school was originally built on the beach and completed the year

Camille came along. The storm destroyed the new building. After that, school officials decided to purchase property further inland. The school has been trying to consolidate all its branches since then.

Architect Kevin Fitzpatrick designed the new pre-school building.

"He tried to capture the look and flavor of the old school," said Williams. "When you drive up the building has a comfortable feel, a place that says this will be a great place for children."

The new building, Williams Hall, is named after Williams, a twenty year veteran at the school, and replaces Johnson Hall, which was named after Rev. Charles Johnson, the founder.

The new building is a gift from Gerald Maples and the Blonheim family, Williams said, without whose help the project would not have been possible.

Which of These Costly Homeseller Mistakes Will You Make When You Sell Your Home?

Hancock County, a new report has just been released which reveals 7 costly mistakes that most homeowners make when selling their home, and a 9 Step System that can help you sell your home fast and for the most amount of money.

This industry report shows clearly how the traditional ways of selling homes have become increasingly less and less effective in today's market. The fact of the matter is that fully three quarters of homesellers don't get what they want for their home and become disillusioned and worse- financially disadvantaged when they put their home on the market. As this report uncovers, most homesellers make 7 deadly mistakes that cost them literally thousands of dollars. The good news is that each and every one of these mistakes is entirely preventable.

In answer to this issue, industry insiders have prepared a free special report entitled "The 9 Step System to Get Your Home Sold Fast and For Top Dollar."

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your free copy of this report, call 1-888-369-3515 and enter ID#1000. You can call anytime, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Call NOW to find out how you can get the most money for your home.

Meyers recipient of first annual "Hull" award at OLA

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

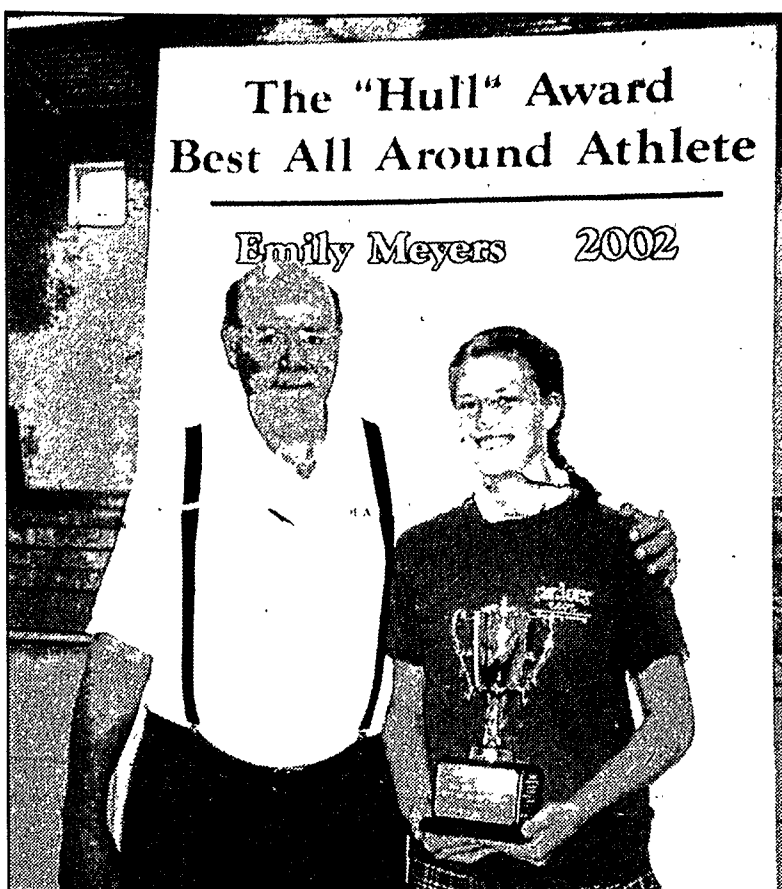

Our Lady Academy and the Crescent Athletic Club established a new award that will be given out each year at the club's awards ceremony. The award signifies the "Best All-Around" athlete and will be presented to a graduating senior. The award is named in honor of Harry Hull, a long-time teacher/coach/athletic director at OLA.

Hull has been at OLA since 1984 and either started or perpetuated each sport at OLA. He graduated from St. Joseph Seminary High School in 1955 and received a degree in history from Notre Dame Seminary in 1958. He earned his juris doctorate from Loyola University in 1963. Upon completion of his studies, Hull enlisted in the Marine Corps and spent a tour of duty in Vietnam.

Following his four years of military service, Hull returned back home to New Orleans where he worked as an attorney for 11 years in the Orleans Parish District Attorney's Office and the U.S. Attorney's Office. However, Hull found his calling in another place besides the courtroom. He returned to school in 1981 and earned a degree in mathematics from the University of New Orleans in 1983. In 1984, Hull started the vocation that has become his true calling - the education of youth.

Besides holding down a full-time teaching schedule of math classes, Hull was OLA's first athletic director. He also lent his hand at coaching basketball and volleyball. He caught OLA onto the craze of soccer and started the first high school girls soccer team in the state of Mississippi at OLA.

But, the one place that people could always find Coach Hull was on the course or the track. Hull has been the school's cross country and track coach since the inception of the sports at OLA. Both sports finished their seasons this year as one of the top schools in the state. In 1987, Hull created the Crescent Athletic Club to help assist the various sporting programs at OLA.

Coach Harry Hull and 2002 recipient Emily Meyers pose in front of the gymnasium display of the Hull Award. The award is presented to OLA's "Best All-Around" athlete each year and is named in honor of the school's longtime teacher/coach/athletic director Harry Hull.

In 1984, Sister Virginia gave Harry Hull his first teacher evaluation and it stated, "Your presence here is totally inspiring and fully Christian to all."

The Hull Award will be presented to a graduating senior each year that has set herself apart in multiple sports at OLA. The winner must have demonstrated that "...playing sports for OLA is her passion." The first recipient of the Hull Award is Emily Meyers.

Meyers has distinguished herself in the sports of volleyball, soccer, and softball. In volleyball, she was named All-Division three consecutive seasons and was named to the All-State team in 2001. This past season she helped lead the Crescents to a South State championship and runner-up finish in the state title game against 5A power Tupelo.

Meyers and the sport of soccer at OLA have become synonymous. She has started every game for OLA since the seventh grade. She has received All-Division honors four years in a row, an All-State selection twice, and has led the Crescents to an unprecedented five straight division titles and three consecutive state titles. She has led the Coast in scoring the past three years and is the career leader at OLA with 109 goals. Recently, she was named to participate in the 2002 Mississippi All-Star game.

Meyers helped take the sport of softball at OLA from pretender to contender in a very short period of time. She has been a varsity starter since her freshman year. She has been named to All-Division teams three times and was voted team MVP three times. She will also play in the 2002 Mississippi All-Star Fast Pitch Softball game. She manned the positions of pitcher, shortstop, and third base for the Crescents. Meyers tallied a career average of .450 and belted 10 homers. The Crescents won their first softball district title this past spring.

Current athletic director Steve Rebold stated, "Her steadfast dedication to our school's sports programs have helped them achieve championship status."

Hull and Meyers, over the years, have become linked to sports tradition at OLA in their own respective ways. Meyers established her legend with her gutsy performances for the Crescents. Hull earned his for his dedication and loyalty to OLA and the youth that matriculate through the school. The award was presented to a truly fine example of a competitor. The Hull Award will become as much a part of OLA as the man whose trademark suspenders and wide brim hat have. Congratulations to a duo of excellence!

another boat sitting several slips away with a similar group of people around it. "How much is Miss Mary Jane asking?"

"They want three dollars a pound"

Bob snorted and Duddie stopped, looked over at the Miss Mary Jane, muttered something, shook his head and kept hosing. There was a rivalry between the two boats that I had heard brought up several times while we were out in the Sound.

Bob didn't hesitate, "If they're charging you thirty dollars for ten pounds, we'll sell them at thirty dollars for eleven pounds."

We had instant takers and soon we were filling Wal Mart bags with ice and shrimp and even threw in a nice Speckled trout that we had caught in the last haul.

A woman and her small daughter wanted only ten pounds, but Bob, not wanting to make change, insisted she take eleven or nothing. She fussed for a minute, but when Bob started to go back to his icing, grudgingly agreed to take the eleven.

I had been helping with all this as cashier and wondered about the fuss, but then I realized that Bob was just being Bob. I had already noticed he had given one man twelve pounds instead of eleven just so as to fill the man's bag up. Bob just didn't want to mess with the small stuff.

Actually, the price he and

The opening day of shrimp season on Thursday yielded huge hauls for both the big fleet shrimpers, and their one-boat competitors -- but the lower prices are choking out the small-business operators.

Duddie were quoting was to me, an outsider, a little strange. Nearly thirty years ago when Stella and I first came down to the coast, the price of shrimp from the boat was about the same price as Bob was asking. It doesn't seem to me that the public realized that the cheap price that they were paying for their shrimp was driving shrimpers out of the business.

There is a lot more to it than that, and it has been written in much greater detail elsewhere, but there is no escaping the fact that we are losing a rich, almost vibrant, heritage that is distinctly ours, just so we can buy shrimp at less than three dollars a pound.

It had been a good day for us. The shrimp were a good size, a mean of about a thirty or so count, the weather was perfect, a little rain to cool things down, lots of cloud cover and steady work with no real problems.

Well, not quite ideal. I had to get up at three to get to help rig the boat at four. But it was all rigged when I got there and Bob bought my breakfast at the Waffle House and then we were out in the Sound by five-thirty. We started the first drag at six on the dot at a place Duddie "knew about" a good two miles away from the huddled mass of boats that had been waiting for the same six o'clock opening time.

As a person, Duddie, was an anachronism from the way things were and still barely are. At seventy-two he had been shrimping all his life ("since I was fourteen"). He knew where to shrimp, how to shrimp, and when to shrimp. He did everything with a soft, economical way of moving that belied the years that went into developing the skill. He would tell us the name of almost every boat that moved around us that day and many of their stories.

When the first "lift" (haul) was in, there was a bit of discussion about the whereabouts of the salt-barrel scoop ("Didn't you take it home?" "No! Didn't you?" "Me? Why would I want to take it home? Lord, I live in Picayune!").

So, we couldn't salt our hauls. I'm a layman so bear with me while I explain this. The idea is to dump a basket of the shrimp and bycatch (fish and stuff) in a barrel of brine. The shrimp would sink to the bottom and most of the bycatch would float to the top. This then would be paddled off with the now-we-realized-had-been-stolen-off-the-pilot-house-roof scoop. Since we didn't do it, this is the best I can describe it.

So, we had to cull the shrimp from the bycatch by hand. A backbreaking, time consuming, catfish finger-jabbing job. I didn't care for it one bit and we caught a lot of shrimp. But it was a good day and I took home to Stella a nice ice chest full of shrimp, including a few fourteen-counters (that the people on the pier couldn't buy). Stella will butterfly them, season them with some garlic and olive oil, put them on the grill and, with a salad and some po'boy bread, enjoy our little bit of the good life.

During the long trip home from Biloxi, I could see boats still working out in the Sound -- big boats, little boats, single haulers, two boom haulers. WLOX said there were about eleven hundred boats going after the shrimp on this years opening day, which is a lot of boats.

That night, when I took Jennie (my Weimaraner) out, I stood in the dark of the porch and looked at the panorama of lights of boats waiting to start again in the morning what they had done all that day. It's not a bad way to spend a bit of life's time.

District -- tuition students

she described to the board how difficult her daughter's last few days of elementary school were after hearing the board's decision during the May meeting.

"Instead of dancing and having fun like the other children," she said, "she was sitting in the stands crying."

Ladner said her children participate in everything at the school, make good grades and never get into trouble.

"I just don't understand why (the board) would (make this decision)," she said.

Ladner came to the Thursday meeting to see if the board members would change their decision and "to make them understand what they did and how bad they hurt the kids."

Peggy Ladner, District 4 board member, asked the board to amend the motion so that out-of-district students could have the opportunity to attend the school.

"(Let's) give everyone (who is illegal) a one-time opportunity to come forward and pay tuition," she said. Superintendent of Education Mike Ladner agreed that these students should have a "window of opportunity" to come forward, identify themselves as illegal and petition the board. Due to miscommunication or misunderstanding, board members Cheryl Bennett, District 2, and Lennette Nicaise, District 5, disagreed with the acceptance of illegal students.

"How can we justify this?" Nicaise asked. She wanted to know how the board could allow the illegal students presently enrolled to stay when the board had previously denied the request of other out-of-district students who had presented themselves to the board.

After nearly an hour of debate between the board and statements from concerned parents in attendance, the board made its decision.

"Any student who wants to petition the board to become a tuition-paying student may come forward," Peggy Ladner said. "This includes any students here now who might be out-of-district students."

This window will allow all students to come forward, including those who have been rejected before. Monica Ladner said she was thankful for the board's decision. She said the cut-off date would be Oct. 1.

"After that window of opportunity, we will aggressively investigate those students who have sneaked in and remove them," Ladner said.

The board also agreed to raise tuition; however, the amount has yet to be decided.

Prior to the season opening, the DMR's Marine Patrol issued more than 20 citations for shrimping during closed season.

The DMR's Marine Patrol was out in full force starting at 6 p.m. June 5 and worked 'round the clock to ensure a smooth shrimp season opening. This included 28 officers, four reserve officers and three dispatchers. Marine Patrol officers conducted patrols from 12 patrol boats throughout the Mississippi Sound.

"We were extremely pleased with opening day commercial shrimping activities," said Lt. Col. David R. Rose of the DMR's Marine Patrol. "Voluntary compliance rates were much higher than in previous years."

Moss rose: An old, favorite gets better

SOUTHERN GARDENING
BY NORMAN WINTER
MSU Horticulturist

Center

One of my favorite plants since I was a child has been moss rose. Moss rose is known botanically as Portulaca grandiflora and has green fleshy succulent leaves with unbelievable flower power.

Moss rose is native to Brazil and has a ground-hugging habit, which means you cover much more space with fewer plants.

The Sundial series of moss rose has been at the top of my list because of its giant semidouble flowers that stay open longer into the day. Sundial peach was a recent All-America Selections winner.

Sundial peach was the first moss rose to earn the All-America Selections award. It has a unique pastel coral color. The plant is vigorous and thrives in our hot, humid summer conditions.

Believe me, if the peach color is not one of your favorites, you can rest assured that all of the other colors are just as impressive.

New in competition with the Sundial series is the Margarita series. In fact, the flashy Margarita Rosita was the second moss rose to garner All-America Selections status.

Margarita Rosita plants have a mounded, compact habit when young. This improves the appearance in cell packs and is easier to remove for transplanting. Margarita Rosita is a sun-loving moss rose.

When grown in a sunny garden with well-drained soil, gardeners can rely on Margarita Rosita to flower for months throughout the growing season.

The semi-double hot pink blooms appear to be designed from the sheerest tissue paper, yet the flowers are quite durable. I am partial to one called Margarita Cream that has antique shades of cream, yellow and rose.

Another new series called Yubi made its debut in our area in the past few years. The Yubi has caught on very quick with gardeners and has won awards in Texas.

The Yubi group is different than the Sundial and Margarita in that the flowers are equally huge but with single petals. The centers of the flowers exposing the stamens give them all a two-toned color effect.

Texas youths helping 'build' a better lifestyle in Hancock County

Everyone agrees it's a blessing. When volunteers from Cypress United Methodist Church Youth Mission, from the Houston, TX, area come to Waveland, they always make a positive difference in a lot of lives.

The group, all seventh or eighth graders and 62 strong this summer, makes its home at Gulfside Assembly, and do a lot of their work on the grounds there.

But as in past years, they also look for work needed in the community. The Rev. Donald Peters, from St. Rock United Methodist in Waveland, orchestrates the group's projects in the community.

This year, one of the places God took the group was to Rita "Aunt Rita" Richardson's house on Herlihy St.

"God just calls us to come help him and so we do," said Annie Compton, one of the seventh graders in the group.

"God called us to help Aunt Rita and other people in need and we're having a great time doing it," said Mollie Biega.

The group re-screened Richardson's porch and put on several new doors, including a screen door, Richardson's favorite repair. They also did some painting and other repairs needed inside and outside the house. Aunt Rita was all smiles.

"I am so happy for this God given blessing, my new family from Texas and to be allowed to live to see my old age," said Richardson. "And for Rev. Peters, who is the author of all this."

For Emelda Indovina, who lives just around the corner from Richardson, the group built a new back deck with wheelchair access. The kids are proud of the work they had completed on Thursday.

"It's a time to get close to God by serving others," said Hayley Stewart. "And it makes you realize what you can really do."

"We're all doing it for a good reason, so it's fun," said Chase Bartley. "This work makes you realize all that you have to be thankful for."

Besides working on the two houses, the youth mission also cleared underbrush at Gulfside, built picnic tables, painted and dug a ditch for drainage.

PRCC unveils second compact disk yearbook

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Pearl River Community College's second compact disk yearbook contains more photographs and video clips than the initial version a year ago.

PRCC blazed a new trail last year with the release of the school's first compact disk yearbook. The school is the first institution of higher learning in the state of Mississippi to convert its yearbook from the traditional printed form to the compact disk format.

"The staff worked extremely hard this year and the proof is in the product. We have more than doubled the information that was in the premiere compact disk yearbook and added a more user friendly way to view the yearbook, thanks to the efforts of our staff Technical Director, Frank Ladner."

The 2002 disk yearbook contains more than 2000-color photographs, as well as 15 video clips videotaped throughout the school year, and 11 music files taken from recordings of the school bands and choirs. It also includes the entire year's worth of Dixie Drawl, the school newspaper.

"We are losing many key staff members," Hague said, "but we have been actively recruiting for the 2003' yearbook staff, and already have some prime candidates for the coming year."

Students who comprised the annual staff include Senior Editor Sergiy Ivanenko of Kiln, Proofing Editor Terrod Jackson of Columbia, Events Reporter Afton Stanford of Poplarville, Picture Editor Jeffery Pendergraft of Purvis, Business Manager Yvonne Marie Montoya Stewart of Simi Valley, California, and Technical Director Frank Ladner of Poplarville.

The CD is offered to students in an attractive maroon and gold binder. Inside is a folder for the disk and a small notebook so students can autograph each other's yearbook in much the same way as traditional yearbooks.

Hague said that the yearbook is compatible with any Internet browser. "If you are on the web, which includes most public libraries," Hague said, "then you will be able to view the yearbook on your computer or a public one." There will not be any special programs to install, he added, "just click and view...easy as that."

The cost of a compact CD yearbook to PRCC students is only $5.25. The cost for traditional yearbooks can range from $30 to $50.

"The CD yearbook was really the only way to go," Hague said, citing examples of business and industry's switching from voluminous

Garden -- Moss rose

There are eight colors in the Yubi series: white, yellow, light pink, pink, rose, red, scarlet and apricot. The same company that introduced the Yubi series also brings to us another group called Duet.

The Duet has two varieties available: Yellow on Rose and Red on Yellow. These bicolor moss roses are very striking and are proving to be popular in our area.

The Yubi flowers don't stay open as long as the Sundial and Margarita but are still much deserving of a spot in the landscape.

Whichever you choose, select healthy transplants and space them six to eight inches apart in a bed with well-drained soil and full sunlight.

Moss rose does not like wet feet or water-logged soil. In fact, after we get it established in our bed, it is considered one of the top plants for being drought tolerant. If you are fortunate to have access to rocks for your garden, this plant is ideal for this situation.

My favorite way to use moss rose is to mass plant single colors. A bed mass planted near a street with a color like fuchsia will literally stop traffic.

But for a really long color display that is tough as nails, try New Gold lantana planted in back with Sundial fuchsia in front. Try combining a complimentary color of moss rose, with Purple Heart, for another easy summer-long performing bed.

For large tubs or planters, I have a passion for planting the mixes with all of the colors creating a riotous display. Remember, moss rose will not do well with wet feet, so a well-drained soil is a must.

About midsummer, you may want to cut back your plants by about 50 percent and fertilize. This will give you a new flush of growth, tighten up your bed and produce more dazzling flowers.

This is the perfect weekend to get some moss rose planted in your garden.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Norman Winter is a horticulturist with Mississippi State University's Extension Service. His office is located at the Central Mississippi Research and Extension Center at 1320 Seven Springs Road, Raymond, MS 39154. He can be heard weekdays at 7:19 a.m. on Public Radio in Mississippi.

Volunteers

The middle school students with their chaperones, Rita "Aunt Rita" Richardson and St. Rock United Methodist Church Rev. Donald Peters, showing off "Aunt Rita's" new screen door.

At St. Rock the kids built a new roof structure above the old roof and covered that with sheet metal. On the remainder of the old roof, they applied aluminum coating to make it water tight. Inside, they replaced ruined ceiling tiles, cleaned and did other needed repairs.

The mission group supplied all labor and materials for the projects. As part of their mission work the group spends a week every summer on helping those in need, wherever their help is needed. They came to Waveland two years ago and will return next year, they say. Last year the group devoted their time to a small town in their home state of Texas. About ten chaperones came with the kids to supervise projects.

Perhaps one young volunteer, Jessica Heath, summed up the group's philosophy.

"God calls in many ways and this is just one of them."

A group of the youth mission members gather on the new deck they built for Emelda Indovina at her house in Waveland. The youth group from Texas spends a week each summer helping those in need.

printed books and catalogs to the compact disk. "If you can put a whole encyclopedia on a single disk, I knew we could put the yearbook on one." And, according to Hague, the yearbook is more of a "slice of the year" than the traditional printed book.

PRCC President William

Lewis agrees. "Throughout our history, Pearl River Community College has been a leader in education, not only in our state but throughout the country. The compact disk yearbook is an example of the innovation and quality that Pearl River continues to offer."

Bay-Waveland Middle hosts Medieval Fest

On May 17, a Medieval Festival was held in the gym at Bay-Waveland Middle School.

The seventh grade social studies classes of Joan Ocso presented different aspects of Medieval life to the entire student body of the school and to the visiting fifth graders of Second Street Elementary.

The students were responsible for research, script writing and costumes for their particular parts. The festival was set up in stations, and the students moved from station to station.

There were 10 stations in all, with welcomes from the king and the queen to information about the history and geography of the area during the Middle Ages, castle life, famous personalities, knighthood, master craftsmen, and herb use.

Other students were responsible for assembling the food for the Medieval Feast and touring the different groups through the festival. The feast consisted of ham, boiled eggs, cheese, white bread with butter, pound cake, and a glass of lemonade.

Josh Garcia, left, as Charlemagne, Ha Huynh as his lady-in-waiting, Ashley Dougherty as Eleanor of Aquitaine, Robert Labat as King Richard, Lindsey Trotter as his lady-in-waiting, Michael Sedillo as Prince John, John Tenney as Robin Hood, Lillie Kelly as Maid Marian, Joey Cucurullo as St. Francis of Assisi, Sarah Gardner as Joan of Arc, Jessica Johnson as Anne Boleyn; and Victoria Corso as Elizabeth I.

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

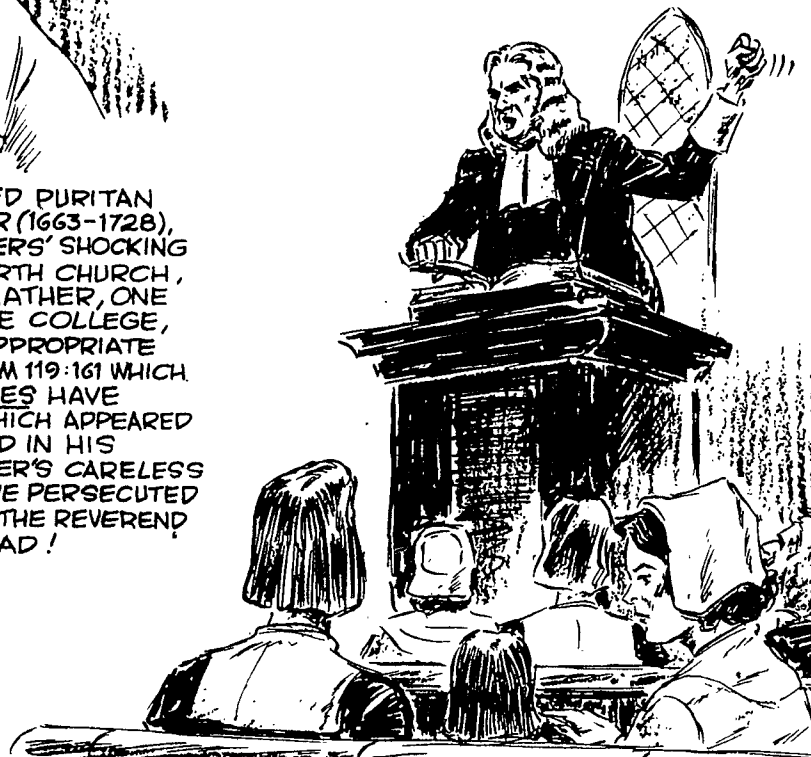

MURDERERS' BIBLES

"THE BIBLE IS, AND PROBABLY ALWAYS WILL BE, THE WORLD'S BEST-SELLER! WITH SO MANY MULTIPLE PRINTINGS OVER THE YEARS, IT WAS ALMOST INEVITABLE THAT TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS SHOULD OCCUR!"

IN 1702, THE OUTRAGED PURITAN MINISTER, COTTON MATHER (1663-1728), PREACHED AGAINST PRINTERS' SHOCKING MISTAKES IN BOSTON'S NORTH CHURCH, WHERE HE WAS PASTOR. MATHER, ONE OF THE FOUNDERS OF YALE COLLEGE, THUNDERED OUT A VERY APPROPRIATE TEXTUAL MISPRINT—PSALM 119:161 WHICH SHOULD HAVE READ, "PRINCES HAVE PERSECUTED ME..." BUT WHICH APPEARED IN THE BIBLE MATHER HELD IN HIS HAND, BECAUSE OF A PRINTER'S CARELESS WORK, AS "PRINTERS HAVE PERSECUTED ME..." AND, ACCORDING TO THE REVEREND MATHER, INDEED THEY HAD!

TWO DIFFERENT EDITIONS ARE NICK-NAMED THE MURDERER'S BIBLE. IN ONE, WHAT SHOULD HAVE READ "LET THE CHILDREN FIRST BE FILLED" (MARK 7:27) WAS MISPRINTED TO READ "...LET THE CHILDREN BE KILLED." IN THE OTHER, THE ADMONITION THAT MURDERERS WERE TO BE PUT TO DEATH (NUMBERS 35:16) SCRAMBLED THE LINE TO READ "MURDERERS SHALL BE PUT TOGETHER."

NEXT WEEK: THE DEVIL TREMBLES!

REFLECTIONS
ON LIFEBy Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Which job wrings us out most?

According to the "Jobs Rated Almanac," a guide to how America works, if you want to find the least stress connected with your work, become a biologist.

Many industries are crying for biologists to cope with the dramatic rise of genetically altered foods, the urgency of work on the human genome map with bioengineering opportunities, and, of course, chemical warfare.

Number two on the preferred list fell to actuaries who determine risk for insurance providers. The absence of stress in their work stems from their freedom to work on their own with little or no pressure or interference.

Hey, aren't they overlooking something here? As we read that number three on the low-stress list is financial planner, I am beginning to get the queasy feeling that I would welcome some stress here and there, even a lot of it, rather than sink into the monotony of pencil-pushing and planning.

So, then, is stress overrated as a prime enemy on the job of our choice?

Granted, the Federal Reserve advises us that financial planning is of the utmost importance, since over half our U.S. consumers do not pay their monthly bills, resulting in 55 percent of families carrying credit balances.

Finances are messy, to say the least, and definitely afford numerous lucrative opportunities to financial planners. But interesting, exciting, fulfilling, challenging and inspiring? It is hard to imagine that.

Yet, who knows? Maybe there are many people who trip out on number four of the coveted list. A computer systems analyst, after all, does have challenges in the wonderful world of the computer itself, and many additional problems with the people for whom programs are composed.

Availing themselves of Census Bureau and Bureau of Labor Statistics data, the almanac authors dug deep into the variables of job compensation, environment, employment prospects, physical demands, security and stress.

So, what is the best combination of all these factors as we attempt to amass the best of all worlds work scenarios? Frankly, the satisfaction factor is not addressed here, and, for numerous people, job satisfaction is number one. And that satisfaction is not necessarily connected to money or prestige.

That is why most artists, who know there is generally little money in art, desire to pursue nothing else, for their heart and spirit are there.

Hence, there is a built-in fallacy in the top-ten low-stress jobs. Conversely, the top-ten high-stress jobs likewise succumb to the fallacy of not explaining the critical role of job satisfaction, contentment and fulfillment.

So, where is all this leading? For one thing, to the conclusion that stress is not only not a negative factor in many jobs, but a positive factor and one that is sought after and pursued as desirable and enjoyable by many people.

For example, just try to tell someone like Dale Earnhardt, Jr. that his job driving a high-performance racing car is downright dangerous, stressful to the extreme, and therefore not a desirable line of work. The fact is, these are all reasons why racing car drivers are attracted to their craft.

The same is true of daredevil circus performers who execute death-defying stunts and maneuvers either on the ground or in the air.

While terror-filled onlookers are gritting their teeth, wringing their hands or holding on to their chairs, the performers are supremely thrilled by an adrenaline rush.

Curiously, the discussion of stress on the job, together with all the other factors such as money and security, goes far beyond the desired equation produced by all those factors. You probably know as many grease monkeys as I do who delight in immersing their hands into grimy, greasy work.

Being dirty most of the day does not bother dedicated mechanics, but rather gives them a down-home, blue-collar feeling of intimate involvement in machines, in their maintenance and in their repair. Over the years, I recall observing some mechanics working to the beat of radio rhythm and blues.

We can say the same about so many workers in the negative category of the jobs plagued by high stress. Lumberjacking, of which I did a lot in my thirties, I enjoyed immensely. Also, always hanging out on the water fishing, swimming and boating, a professional fisher I would have been with delight.

However, I would draw the line at cowboy. Being a cowpuncher often means enduring long hours of drudgery, lonely trails and plains, and weather which frequently refuses to cooperate in the various seasons of time.

Fat pay, security and environment notwithstanding, the most critical stress component of any job is whether your heart is in it or not. No matter how tough a job is, you love it if your heart is in it. This stands out in talk show hosts, sportscasters, hard-hitting politicians and road-dragging entertainers.

Although there are definite groupings of job stress and difficulty, these things are all relative to an individual's taste for challenge and hardship.

As a last word of caution when comparing your job to another's, just remember, "The grass always seems greener on the other side."

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

Muslim and Christian Beliefs

MUSLIM

- Qur'an in Arabic is the perfect word for Allah.
- Islam started with Adam not with Muhammad.
- Most Muslims believe that Muhammad was sinless, but not divine.
- Jesus was a prophet of God, but not the Son of God. He was a lesser prophet than Muhammad.
- Jesus did not die on a cross or rise from the death and the grave.
- Jesus was a faithful follower of Allah.
- God is not Triune.
- Christians and Jews corrupted their scriptures every single copy.
- Allah gave Muhammad the prophet permission to have 12 wives.
- Allah will restore the world at the end of the age - by a human leader called Mahdi.

CHRISTIAN

- Christians believe the Holy Bible is the inspired 'world of Almighty God.
- The Father, the Son, the Holy Spirit is their Triune God.
- Jesus is the only begotten Son of God, without sin. Virgin born. Matthew 3:17, Matthew 16:15 and Isaiah 7:12
- Mankind can only receive salvation through Jesus Christ. John 14:6
- Jesus is The Messiah. Micah 5:2, Luke 2:4, 5, 7; Isaiah 40:3-5, Luke 3:3-6, Zechariah 9:9, Mark 11:7, 9, 11; Psalms 41:9 and Luke 22:47-48
- Christians believe in Heaven and a place of torment called Hades.
- Jesus will return to judge the world, restore peace on earth and set up His Kingdom.

Readers should read the Qur'an and the Bible for more information.

The "Word" for the Week

Frankly fathers

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

The statistics are staggering. Easy divorce laws enable fathers to bear children and then skip the nest. What are we to make of it?

The breakdown of society, the rise of poverty and violence, the slide in education is all proportional to the breakup of families. School children classified as "at risk" are inevitably the kids without dad at home. These youngsters are more prone to drugs, promiscuity and violence.

The old adage says, "You cannot legislate morality." Bah. Humbug. Why do we have laws against murder, rape and robbery?

We legislate morality on a regular basis, as long as it's politically popular. What about tightening up divorce laws? I see two problems.

The me-first attitude is too prevalent. Self-centeredness rules. Money and pleasure are kings. Moms and dads want what they want yesterday. Today is too late.

Second, the line between right and wrong gets lower and lower each and every day. We disposed of eternal truth a long time ago. We see easy divorce as right, no matter the grief or consequences.

Two remedies are needed. The first is love, a much discussed but much abused commodity. "Husbands, love your wives" (Ephesians 5:25, Colossians 3:19).

Heartfelt obedience to this command would go a long way. The second is a handle on unchanging truth. God says, "I hate divorce" (Malachi 2:16). We should too.
